
The attached forms have been revised to address comments received from an earlier public comment period. The most significant change is that there will be two forms; one for new positions and one for consultants. Comments received earlier this year indicated that separate forms would be easier to understand and also provide clearer instructions.

FPPC regulation 18734 outlines the regulatory requirements for documentation when individuals make or participate in governmental decisions by providing services as a consultant or when individuals are hired into a new position that has not yet been added to the agency's conflict-of-interest code.

Comments and suggestions are encouraged and should be directed to Ivy Sevilla at isevilla@fppc.ca.gov or Lynda Cassady at lcassady@fppc.ca.gov before August 31, 2011. Unless requested, a meeting at the Commission office will not be held.
