Re: Your Request for Advice
Our File No. A-89-200

Dear Mr. Riddle:

You have been authorized by Sheriff Hennessey to request advice concerning his reporting requirements under the Political Reform Act (the "Act").<sup>1/</sup>

QUESTION

The Act provides that reimbursement for travel expenses and per diem received from a bona fide educational, academic, or charitable organization is not "income" within the meaning of the Act. The Act also provides that "income" includes "gifts." Accordingly, is reimbursement for travel expenses and per diem from a bona fide educational academic or charitable organization exempt from the definition of "gift" as used in the Act?

CONCLUSION

Reimbursement for travel expenses and per diem received from a bona fide educational, academic or charitable organization is not a "gift" within the meaning of the Act if the recipient provided consideration of equal or greater value to the organization.

FACTS

In March of 1989, Sheriff Hennessey attended a law enforcement mission to Israel sponsored and financed by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith (the "League"). Sheriff Hennessey and other senior law enforcement officers from the United States participated with Israeli Police in a seminar to share ideas on a variety of law enforcement matters, including issues relating to counter-terrorism. According to the itinerary provided, the group met with officials of various police agencies, both civilian and military, to discuss terrorism, demonstrations and other actions in which the police become involved.

The Anti-Defamation League is qualified as an educational and charitable organization by the IRS, qualifying under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. The League's goal is to educate Americans about Israel; promote better interfaith and intergroup relations; counteract anti-democratic extremism and strengthen democratic values and structures. The League maintains speakers' bureaus and has several publications relating to law, human rights, interreligious concerns and other topics. Sheriff Hennessey's travel expenses and per diem were paid for by the League.

ANALYSIS

Section 82030 (a) defines "income," in part, as any "gift, including any gift of food or beverage...." Section 82030 (b) lists the following exception to "income":

(2) Salary and reimbursement for expenses or per diem received from a state, local, or federal government agency and reimbursement for travel expenses and per diem received from a bona fide educational, academic, or charitable organization.

(Emphasis added.)

Section 82028 defines "gift" as follows:

(a) "Gift" means, except as provided in subdivision (b), any payment to the extent that consideration of equal or greater value is not received....

Subdivision (b) of Section 82028 lists six exceptions to the definition of "gift," however, an exception for travel and per diem from a bona fide educational, academic or charitable organization is not included.

A gift is one form of income and the Act provides that reimbursement for travel expenses and per diem received from a bona fide educational, academic, or charitable organization is not income within the meaning of the Act. The question then arises as to whether such reimbursement is also excluded from the definition of "gift."

In 1978, the Legislature amended Sections 82028 and 82030. The primary effect of the amendments was to restructure the exceptions to "gifts" and "income." Prior to 1978, Section 82028 read as follows:

"Gift" means any payment to the extent that consideration of equal or greater value is not received. Any person, other than a defendant in a criminal action, who claims that a payment is not a gift by reason of receipt of consideration has the burden of proving that the consideration received is of equal or greater value. The term "gift" does not include informational material such as books, reports, pamphlets, calendars or periodicals. No payment for travel or reimbursement for any expenses shall be deemed "informational material."

The present exceptions from the definition of "gift" set forth in subsections (b) (2) through (b) (5) of Section 82028 were not then part of the section, but were listed in substantially similar form in Section 82030 as exceptions to "income." The 1978 amendment to Section 82030 deleted the subdivisions uniquely related to "gifts" from the exclusions to income. Thus, the following then-numbered subdivisions were removed from the list of income exclusions:

(3) Gifts of informational material, such as books, pamphlets, reports, calendars or periodicals;

(4) Gifts which are not used and which, within 30 days after receipt, are returned to the donor or delivered to a charitable organization without being claimed as a charitable contribution for tax purposes;

(5) Gifts from an individual's spouse, child, parent, grandparent, grandchild, brother, sister, parent-in-law, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, aunt, uncle, or first cousin or the spouse of any such person; provided that a gift from any such person shall be considered income if the donor is acting as an agent or intermediary for any person not covered by this paragraph;

Randy Riddle

The effect of the 1978 amendments was to place the exclusions which related to payments made without consideration within the exclusions to "gifts", while leaving the payments which involve consideration within the exclusions to "income." Exclusions which are neither "gifts" nor "income," such as campaign contributions and inheritances, are listed as exclusions under both sections.

If the definition of "gift" under Section 82028 required a threshold qualification as "income" under Section 82030, there would be no purpose in segregating the exclusions for gifts from the exclusions for income. There would certainly be no purpose in duplicating the exclusions for campaign contributions and inheritances. These exclusions would be meaningless under Section 82028. A statute must be construed to give effect to all of its terms. (Wells v. Marina City Properties, Inc. (1981) 29 Cal.3d 781, 788.)

It is well-settled that statutes must be given a reasonable and commonsense construction--one that is practical rather than technical and that will lead to a wise policy and avoid absurdity. (Stanley v. Justice Court for Auburn Judicial Dist. (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 244.) There are many statutes in the Act which deal specifically and uniquely with gifts. (See, e.g., Sections 85400, 86201-86204, 87210 and 87313.) A reasonable construction of the separation of the "gift" and "income" provisions is that the gift determination under Section 82028 was intended to stand on its own, without reference to Section 82030. This allows for a simple method of ascertaining what is a "gift" for purposes of the other statutes listed above, without requiring the two-step process that would be required if resort must first be had to Section 82030.

Based upon the foregoing, it seems logical that the exclusion for travel expenses and per diem received from a bona fide educational, academic, or charitable organization is intended to apply to payments made for consideration and not to gifts. Furthermore, the placement of the exclusion is indicative of this interpretation. It is listed within a subdivision which also excludes salary and reimbursement for expenses or per diem received from a state, local, or federal government agency. This juxtaposition makes the most sense if both types of payments are considered those made for consideration, rather than gifts.

Under the above interpretation, Sheriff Hennessey has the burden of showing that he provided consideration of equal or greater value in exchange for the reimbursement of travel expenses and per diem paid by the League. If he does not meet this burden of proof, the reimbursement will constitute a gift. Since the trip took place after January 1, 1989, he would be subject to the gift limitations set forth in Section 85400. That section prohibits elected officeholders from receiving gifts in excess of $1,000 from a single source in any calendar year.

May 10, 1989

However, in the event that the value of the gift exceeds $1,000, Regulation 18726.1(b) (copy enclosed) provides as follows:

(b)...A gift may be returned, donated, or reimbursed by the recipient official in the following manner:

The official may, within 30 days of receipt, reimburse the donor or his or her agent or intermediary for all or a portion of the gift. In this event the value of the gift is reduced by the amount of the reimbursement.

Although the 30-day period has already lapsed, we do not believe that it would be equitable to enforce the 30-day requirement in this case since you requested advice within the 30-day period. Therefore, if Sheriff Hennessey concludes that he did not provide adequate consideration and has received a gift, he may reimburse the League in sufficient amount to bring him within the $1,000 limit of Section 85400. If this reimbursement is made within 15 days of the date of this letter, we will consider it to have been timely made.

Should you have any questions regarding the foregoing, I may be reached at (916) 322-5901.

Sincerely,

Kathryn E. Donovan

Legal Division

Dear Ms. Ellison:

We write on behalf of San Francisco Michael Hennessey to seek advice concerning Sheriff Hennessey's duties under the California Political Reform Act (California Government Code Sections 81000 et seq.; "the Act.") Specifically, we seek advice regarding whether the payment of travel expenses and per diem by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai Brith ("the League") in connection with a seminar in Israel is considered a gift for the purposes of the Act. The Sheriff needs advice on this subject to determine whether he must disclose this payment on his annual economic interest statement and whether he must reimburse to the League that portion of the payment in excess of $1,000.

We are informed that the League is a nonprofit, tax-exempt educational and charitable organization. The seminar in question was conducted from March 5 to March 14, 1989. We have enclosed with this letter the League's invitation and agenda for the seminar. As these materials reveal, the seminar dealt with various aspects of law enforcement, including anti-terrorism strategies.

The Act defines income as [A] payment received, including but not limited to any salary, wage, advance, dividend, interest, rent, proceeds from any sale, gift, including any gift of food or beverage, loan, forgiveness of or payment of indebtedness received by the filer, reimbursement for expenses [or] per diem.

Government Code Section 82030(a) (emphasis added.)

The emphasized part of this section makes clear that a gift is one form of income.

Government Code Section 82030(b)(2) provides that income does not include "reimbursement for travel expenses and per diem received from a bona fide educational, academic, or charitable organization."

Section 82028 defines gift as "any payment to the extent that consideration of equal or greater value is not received . . . ." Section 82028 sets out a number of exceptions to the definition of "gift," but these exceptions do not include reimbursement for travel expenses and per diem from a charitable organization.

The Act generally requires that public officials disclose on their annual economic interest statements "each source of income aggregating $250 or more in value, or $50 or more in value if the income was a gift." Government Code Section 87207. Further, public officials may not participate in decisions that would have a foreseeable material financial effect on any source of income or any donor of gifts aggregating $250 or more in the twelve month period prior to the decision. Government Code Sections 87103(c) and 87103(e). Finally, Proposition 73, adopted by the voters in June 1988, prohibits elected officials from accepting from a single source a gift or gifts aggregating $1,000 or more in any calendar year. Government Code Section 85400.

Based on these provisions, we ask the following question:

Given that a gift is one form of income and that the Act provides that reimbursement for travel expenses and per diem received from a bona fide educational, academic, or charitable organization is not income within the meaning of the Act, is such a reimbursement deemed to be a gift within the meaning of the Act?

In our view, these sections cannot be construed to treat such a reimbursement as a gift. A gift is merely one type of income. Since the reimbursements in question are excluded from the general definition of income, they cannot be gifts. A conclusion that such reimbursements are gifts would render meaningless their exclusion from the definition of income. A statute must be construed to give effect to all of its terms. Wells v. Marina City Properties, Inc. (1981) 29 Cal.3d 781, 788. Further, statutes should not be construed to lead to such an absurd result. Bosley Medical Group v. Abramson (1984) 161 Cal.App.3d 284, 291.

Finally, we find nothing in Proposition 73 that would alter the conclusion that such a reimbursement is not a gift. Proposition 73 added the prohibition against elected officials accepting gifts in excess of $1,000. However, Proposition 73 did not amend the definition of "gift" or "income." Further, nothing in that measure or its legislative history reveals any intent to alter the Act's exclusion of reimbursements for travel expenses and per diem from a charitable organization from the definition of income.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any further questions concerning this matter.

Very truly yours,

LOUISE H. RENNE

Re: Your Request For Advice
Our File No. A-89-200

Dear Mr. Riddle:

This will confirm that Sheriff Hennessey is not required to reimburse the Anti-Defamation League for travel and per diem relating to the trip to Israel that is in excess of $1,000. Because of clarifications by the Commission at its June 6th meeting, we are now advising that the $1,000 limitation contained in Government Code Section 85400 applies only to payments made for a speech, article or published work related to the governmental process, excluding actual travel expenses and reasonable subsistence directly in connection therewith.

There is still an issue regarding whether or not the sheriff will be required to report the reimbursement for travel and per diem as a gift on his statement of economic interest. That issue will be presented to the Commission at its meeting on July 12, 1989.

If you have any questions regarding the above, please contact me at (916) 322-5901.

Sincerely,

Kathryn E. Donovan
General Counsel
